Brig.-Gen. Charles G. Harker.

Owing to the frequent confusion of the names of Gens. Harker and Hooker in our telegraphic reports, a very natural degree of hope had been cherished by his brothers here that the patriot whose name heads this article was still spared to render his country additional service. Yesterday, however, a telegram was received extinguishing that hope, and carrying grief into the hearts of his many relatives and friends in Oregon.

Brig.-Gen. Charles G. Harker was born in Swedesboro, New Jersey, in 1837. In 1854, he was appointed Cadet in the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, and graduated in July, 1853. In the winter of the same year he was ordered to Oregon, with the rank of Second Lieutenant, and was stationed at Fort Colville, where he remained until the rebellion broke out, when he made application for active service East, which was granted him. He was then promoted to Captain, and left for the seat of war in Sept. 1861. Upon his arrival, he was again promoted to Colonel of a brigade in the Army of the Cumberland. The first principal battle he participated in was that of Murfreesboro, when he was recommended for promotion to Brig.-General by Major-General Rosecrans. At the battles of Chickamauga and Missionary Ridge, he had two horses shot from under him, and was wounded four times, but did not leave the field. At the battle of Chattanooga he was again wounded, and after the battle, was promoted to Brigadier-General for meritorous services. At the battle of Resaca he had his horse killed by the explosion of a shell, and was himself slightly wounded, but was not disabled for duty. The last battle in which he participated was that of Kenesaw Mountain, where he was severely wounded, from the effects of which he died at the early age of 27 years. Thus has passed away another gallant soul, his early years of manhood given to his country, and his life laid upon the Altar of human Liberty. May his memory mingle with the grateful incense of a renewed nation and his example be imitated by the legion of defenders who were left behind as he went to his reward.

BOISE ITEMS.—The Democrats of Idaho have nominated E. D. Holbrook, of Idaho City for Delegate to Congress; Hill Beachey, of Lewiston, for Territorial Treasurer, and J. S. Haskell, of Idaho City for Attorney General.

The News says that one mail coach and mail bag of Holliday & Co.'s Line had arrived at Boise City, but no commission or key had arrived for the Postmaster, therefore the bag could not be opened.

A new stage line is commenced between Walla Walla and Placerville.

A water spout, as it is called, says the Humboldt Register of July 2d, struck about midway the canyon Monday afternoon, setting the water up in various channels to a depth of two feet six inches. Heavy gravel was thrown up, and all sorts of rubbish drifted in the streets and through gardens, for a few minutes. Floors were flooded and several houses were in danger of having their bottoms knocked from under. Ditches were in lively demand, and responded with so much activity that no serious damage was done.

SANITARY CONTRIBUTIONS. — We have received from Mrs. Gov. Gibbs, a list of names of contributors to the Sanitary Fund, transmitted through the Ladies' Sanitary Aid Society, which, owing to its extreme length, we shall be unable to publish. The the total receipts, however, are reported below:

From Lafayette, $125, currency.
From Roseburg, Cole's Valley precinct and Ten Mile precinct, Douglas county, $55 75.

The New York Times says that Grant has fully 200,000 men. Other accounts put the figures at 130,000 to 160,000.

J. W. Marshall, the discoverer of gold in California, still lives at Coloma, a poor but respectable citizen.

The cost of the Atlantic cable, now manufacturing, will be £700,000. It will be heavier than the old one.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

Knowing the interest you feel in the success of our late prospecting tour through Oregon, a portion of Nevada Territory and California, I have concluded to address you in as brief a space as possible, detailing the main incidents connected with the tour; but first must claim your indulgence, and ask you to excuse my brevity and all imperfections, which I feel assured you will readily do when I inform you that I am compelled to pen this in a recumbent posture, on a bed in a tent pitched in the suburbs of this flourishing mining town, and suffering from a severe wound received from the Indians on the 21st of June, near the California line, but in Oregon.

As you already know, our party left Dalles, April 18th. It consisted then of the following members: Dr. Wm. Dain, J. Jackson, Geo. W. Beals, Rufus Perkins, John W. Sherwood, A. K. Gird, Edwin Stone, G. W. Chadwick, J. H. Deadmond, Simond Lundry, Wm. Conroy, G. H. Caine, Alexander Swan, Dan'l Gross and the undersigned—fifteen in all. At the bridge of Deschutes, Mr. Jackson received a letter from Dalles, with information requiring his immediate presence there; consequently he was under the necessity of withdrawing from the company; but before doing so, he very generously provided me with a fine riding animal for the tour, my own being unfit for the journey. At Bissell's ranch, sixty miles from Dalles, Mr. Beals drew out and returned home. At the same place, a Mr. David Dewitt, joined us, the company now numbering fourteen. It was our intention to travel with Capt. Drake's command; but, finding that their movements would, on account of heavy wagons and pack animals, be necessarily slow, we determined to push on alone. Considerable time was spent in the mountains of Crooked river prospecting, but without accomplishing much, although a little gold was found. While in these mountains, Messrs. Gird, Sherwood and Conroy ran across a band of seven horses which had been stolen by the Indians some time previous, captured the band and brought them into camp. Finding no paying mines in the vicinity of Crooked river, we continued our journey up to where the Yreka trail to Canyon City crosses that stream, where we met some emigrants from Yreka and camped with them one week. While camped there, Messrs. Perkins, Deadmond and Lundy, with four days' provisions, started off in a westerly direction to prospect, also to find the old Emigrant road of 1845. Dr. Dain and Edwin Stone went out in a southwest direction for the same purpose; they were all in camp on the fourth day and reported nothing satisfactory.

On the 15th of May, the company left the head of Crooked river, and on the same day, in the afternoon, discovered a fresh Indian trail, where they had a little while before driven a band of thirty or forty horses, all stolen, and while in the act of camping, some of the company discovered a great smoke about a mile distant. A detachment of four men started out, in a heavy rain, but before reaching the spot where the smoke was seen, the Indians discovered our men and forthwith skedaddled; our men scouted through the brush in the enemy's camp, but found nothing save tracks and a few pieces of old rope.

On the 16th, we struck off to the South, and during the day received the following accession to our company, viz: Mr. E. A. Heath, Mr. W. Farmer and M. V. Selty, all of Yreka. Our little force now numbering 17 men, we continued our journey south, and sometimes south east, until we arrived at a lake about 115 miles from Crooked river. At this point, in consequence of the indisposition of Messrs. Gird and Conroy, these two gentlemen left us, accompanied by Mr. Sherwood, and returned to the Dalles; this was on Sunday, May 22d. On the same day, the balance of our company, now numbering only 14 men, started north easterly to get around the head of the lake before we could resume our course southward; in the afternoon we camped on the shore of the lake at its head; before us, in the direction we wished to travel, was a very high perpendicular bluff of rocks and we perceived a gap or passage opposite our camp, where we thought of passing through to reach the summit of said Bluff. Dr. Dain, Messrs. Perkins and Stone took my marine glass and started up this passage to take observations of the surrounding country; before reaching the summit they discovered down in a deep hollow several Indian horses with their saddles on, but failed to see any Indians; they immediately returned to camp and reported the fact, when a portion of the men immediately proposed to go up with their rifles and dislodge the Indians. Dr. Dain, Mr. Perkins and myself opposed the measure as the Indians were well concealed behind the rocks, and at the first fire and before we could possibly see them, might succeed in destroying half of our party if not more, and thus put a stop to our further prospecting; and again, the Indians we thought, might be a party of Pi-Utes whom we had every assurance were at peace with the whites. That night we kept a good watch over our camp and animals, Mr. Heath making his bed at the foot of the gap, where the Indians would necessarily have to pass if they meditated an attack upon us. The night passed off, however, without any trouble, the enemy not daring to approach us. After sunrise on the 23d, while in the act of packing our horses, the Indians on the bluff commenced firing down upon us, the reports of their guns accompanied with terrific yells; but they were too far off to do us any damage. Upon consultation, the majority of our little company (deeming prudence and caution the better part of valor) concluded to abandon the intention of ascending the bluff by this gap; we therefore went a few miles to the eastward and ascended at another and safer point; as soon as we reached the table land on the bluff, I looked through my glass in the direction of the other gap, and saw four Indians mounted and riding abreast, approaching us; the members of the company each in turn took a look through the glass and Mr. Perkins being the last saw about forty Indians in single file immediately in the rear of the first four, all approaching our trail. We remounted our horses, not the least alarmed at the approaching cavalcade, and kept on in good order in the right direction; while we went south the savages kept on east toward the Snow Mountains, south of Harney Lake, and that is the last we have seen of that Siwash army. We continued south and rounded on a small tributary of the south Malheur where we were in momentary expectation of having a visit from the Indians, but gradually to our satisfaction none called. On the evening of that day we were obliged to travel until 10 o'clock, and camped without water; during the night we saw innumerable Indian signal fires in the mountains to our right and left, on a high butte in front. Things began to look squally, but the company determined to go ahead and did. Nothing worthy of note transpired from that time until on our return trip.

The Richmond Sentinel is puzzled at Gen. Grant's operations. It says: "It is time for us all to cease speculations as to Grant's movements, and attend to the facts. He has been offering fight when we thought he was retreating, and retreating when we thought he was offering fight; he has been advancing when he was whipped, and heading up stream when he had every reason to hurry down. He has gone by the rule of military contrariness, and has always disappointed us whenever we supposed he was acting sensibly or consistently with himself. We suppose he has come to the final fight at last; though, warned by experience, we express the opinion with becoming doubt."

THE EMIGRATION FROM EUROPE to this country this year will amount to a quarter million of persons. A majority of those who are crossing the ocean to better their condition are small farmers and mechanics, while others are attracted by the prospects of immediate employment at high wages and bounties in the army.

A QUEER TREE.—In Lowell, Mass., there is an apple tree which never blossoms and yet is loaded every year with fruit. Grafts from it blossom. The seeds are frequently partially or wholly exposed to view at the outside of the "blow" end of the fruit, while the centre of the fruit is as compact as that of a turnip.

Immense Destruction of Property by Forrest.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—Additional alarm was occasioned on the Virginia side of the Potomac yesterday by reports of the rebels running a railroad in Manassas. This is not yet verified, but is not thought impossible. It is also the rebels' design to command the Gaps in order to keep open communication between Gordonsville and Shenandoah Valley.

The Star extra says: A body of rebel raiders, numbering between 400 and 500, passed through Little Washington and Sperryville on Thursday night on their way towards Madison and Gordonsville. They had 200 horses and 25 prisoners, who were mounted on horses led by rebels. They passed Creigbesville about eight and a half hours afterwards. A small force of Union cavalry made their appearance in the same place in hot pursuit. The rebels gave out that they were on their way to Gordonsville and thence to Richmond. They seemed to be in a hurry, having received information that Sheridan was between them and Richmond with a large cavalry force. These rebels were doubtless a part of the force recently operating in Maryland.

Secessionists in Baltimore say that the recent invasion was only a reconnoissance, and that they will receive large reinforcements and return with Lee in command.

PHILADELPHIA, July 16.—The Enquirer says that about 200 of Mosby's command passed near Leesburg on Tuesday night, each rider leading a horse and driving before them nearly a thousand head of cattle. When last heard from they were making for Ashby's Gap. Another portion is known to have been at Chester's Gap on Wednesday noon.

Harry Gilmore's cavalry were the last to cross the Potomac, which they did a little above Edward's Ferry. After crossing, a small force was detached and sent towards Snickersville, and the main body moved directly for Ashby's Gap.

Sharpshooters and scouts report the rebels recrossing the Potomac nearly opposite Poolesville, driving before them about 2000 head of cattle, which they had stolen while in Maryland.

A dispatch received by Gen. Halleck from Rockport, says the retreating rebels passed through that place at three this morning, moving in the direction of Edward's Ferry.

The rebels near Bladensburg moved off this morning, taking the road westward carrying off a number of horses and cattle that were stolen in that neighborhood. Several squads of rebel prisoners have been brought in to-day. Our killed and wounded yesterday amounts to about two hundred.

BALTIMORE, July 13.—The only intelligence gathered from the conductor who brought the engine through from Washington to-day, was that firing was heard in that neighborhood to-day. All information here to-day induces the conviction that the enemy is in full retreat; that the fighting of Monday and Tuesday was to cover the retreat and to enable them to get their plunder safely across the Potomac at Edward's Ferry. The railroad communication between Baltimore and Washington, which has been suspended forty-eight hours, was resumed this afternoon.

The Washington Chronicle of Tuesday has the following account of operations about Washington. Our cavalry under Major Fry, stubbornly contended the ground of advance, retiring only when flanked by superior numbers. On Sunday we fought from 3 to 9 o'clock, P. M., driving the rebels back five miles. On Monday the rebels were kept at bay two or three miles out from Tenallytown, the force in front being estimated at several thousand. The President and Secretary of War being present encouraged the troops. About 2 P. M., the rebels advanced towards Fort Stevens five miles from the city. Their sharpshooters got within 30 or 40 yards of the fort. The 25th New York cavalry dismounted and drove them out of the houses around the fortifications which protected them. They burned the houses as they obstructed the range of the guns. Other regiments then arrived and drove the rebels back half mile; towards 6, P. M., the veterans of the 6th corps advanced and drove the rebels one mile and a half.

Gen. Franklin escaped and arrived in Baltimore this morning.

CHICAGO, July 14.—A letter from Sherman's army dated the 6th states on the night of the 30th ult., a movement took place whereby the 4th and 18th army corps held the entire line of works, while the remainder of the army moved to the right and flanked the expedition. Johnston by some means learned of the movement the same night and abandoned the works around Kenshaw falling back three miles south of Marietta. Early in the morning the third division entered Marietta, closely following the rebels' heels: the balance of the army marching on different roads towards Atlanta. Before leaving, Johnson's army destroyed the railroad and leaving nothing of value. On the 4th we advanced one mile and a half, when a lively skirmish fire was kept up for some time our line gradually advancing upon the enemy despite of the rain of shot and shell capturing the rebels in the rifle pits, in plain view of the rebel army. During the day we captured 5,000 prisoners. On the morning of the 5th we learned that the enemy had again fallen back to the Chattahoochie where there were fortifications in good position.

NASHVILLE, July 14.—The Chattanooga Gazette of the 9th says: Our forces have successfully crossed the Chattahoochie. Hardee's rebel corps was flanked and forced to run for their lives. From two to five thousand prisoners were captured. The whole of Johnston's army are now in the woods north of Atlanta.

CHICAGO, July 16.—The Nashville Union says that further advices fully confirm the crossing of the Chattahoochie and securing a lodgment of our forces on the south bank of that stream.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—The reports from the Army of the Potomac say the rebels have announced their troops in a manner which seems to augur an attack on our rear. At last accounts Hill's corps was massing around our left with the intention, military men say, of getting in our rear.

On the 12th, they made a demonstration on Fortsaleen road, apparently with the purpose of attacking our troops, but being confronted by an ample force changed their design.

NEW YORK, July 15.—The latest Petersburg news to the 13th says heavy skirmishing is going on.

An official dispatch says the rebel Gen. Jones on the 4th of July reports that the rebels repulsed the federal forces near Charleston, with the loss of six hundred men and confirms the capture of two rebel gunboats. It also says the rebel picket line is re-established; the federals falling back. The monitors and gunboats at Stono Inlet are firing on the rebel lines heavily.

The Iron-clad Tennessee of the Confederate navy passed with her fleet safely on the N. & L. Railroad.

Private ladies with Sanitary stores and valuable presents for the Government, were captured.

The rebel General Hill is under the command of Forrest, who, within the past month, have destroyed several millions of dollars worth of property.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—Dispatches received announces that Sherman's army is within six miles of Atlanta.

An arrival from City Point to-day reports that considerable skirmishing has been going on for several days past along the line.

General Sheridan with his cavalry have gone on another raid.

The Richmond Examiner of the 9th says that a portion of Grant's force have gone up York river and were landing at White House.

The Examiner Gazette says that a portion of the forces were left at Williamsburg, Yorktown and Gloucester Point. Also that Grant must make a move of the same kind soon owing to circumstances to which it need not refer.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 15.—Steamer Constitution arrived this morning.

Gold in New York on the 15th was 2 51½ on the 16th, 2 51.

Yes, Our Flag is still Advancing!

Yes, our flag is still advancing
See it mounting to the sky
Rebel guns dash against it
But it still keeps flying on
Proof resists their deadly shot
Mortars frown with all their spite
But the starry banner fly on
Arms and frowns resist in vain

Chorus—Still advancing, &c.

Yes, our flag is still advancing
Anywhere and everywhere
Many slaves it has released
Makes the shackles fall to pieces
Our flag speaks to every heart
Love to freedom does impart
Earth's better feelings all unite
Ere its glorious rays to greet

Chorus—Still advancing, &c.

Yes, our flag is still advancing
How those words inspire the brave
May our arms never weary
Keep that flag advancing still
Till over all this nation
Where the foot of man has trod,
All shall bow beneath Freedom's sway
And all shall worship Freedom's God

Chorus—Still advancing, &c.

A SHARP OPERATION.—It is well known that women delight in fine sets of teeth. If they do not have them through the kindly assistance of Dame Nature they are quite willing to call in the services of the dentist and lacerate their mouths with the pearly appliances. So thought no less a personage than a countrywoman of Fergus descent who lately visited Dr. A. Park, dentist, at 117 J street between Fourth and Fifth (up stairs) and stipulated for a set of teeth, which was duly prepared and for which the sum of $60 was to be paid. Yesterday she appeared at the room of Dr. Park, had the teeth adjusted to her lovely or indovely face as the case may be, and gently suggested that she would step out and call upon some other dentist, get his opinion as to the quality of the work, and if it was favorable she would return and foot the bill. The dentist did not appreciate this suggestion, although he might have entertained great respect for the strategical talent evinced. He amended the proposition by adding that he would take the teeth in his own possession, accompany the lady to that other dentist, and if he did not pronounce the job a good one he would make it up. The female strategist did not concur in this view of the case and abided by her original motion. The difference of opinion extended to the point of the woman's insisting upon her right to leave with the aforesaid set of teeth in her mouth, and upon the dentist's firm determination that she should not. The lady then commenced to scream, to the wonder and amazement of the occupants of the rooms adjacent, some of whom made their appearance, and being informed of the facts of the case advised that she should be placed under arrest. Dr. Park thought he would be a little more lenient with her, detain her a while and then she might probably give up the teeth. She would not, however, and a police officer was at last sent for. He had some other business in hand, and there was considerable delay. In the meantime the woman was left alone, under lock and key, or other custody, and when access was again had to the room the bird had flown. It appeared that on exploring the precincts of her prison house, she found that the front was flanked by a balcony, and it was a very easy thing for her to step out on that trip along on the adjoining balconies, avail herself of a flight of stairs at the corner of J and Fifth, descend to the street, and then flee "like the bright gazelle, or any thing else that runs fast." She was heard of no more, neither was that set of teeth. If it would not seem officious, we would suggest to Dr. Park to donate those teeth to the Sanitary Fund, and then have a Committee appointed whose special duty it should be to hunt them up.—Sac Union 8th

THE MINING TAX.—The tax upon the products of gold and silver mines as fixed by the bill which has passed both Houses of Congress, is one half of one per cent—the tax to be collected not directly at the mine but from the assayers through whose hands they pass. This is certainly an improvement on the bill, as it passed the House, when it required five per cent of the gross product of the mines. Californians will not grumble at the tax, though in common with all citizens out of Congress, who have taken the trouble to look into the matter, they will continue to doubt the policy taxing the products of the mines at all. Gold and silver the country must have to pay its foreign debts in, if not to use as a currency. It would seem wiser to offer a bounty than by taxing to repress their production. This is a question of policy and of nothing else. The tax raises the cost of producing gold at a time when unusual and novel legislation is deemed necessary to keep down the price of the article. As it was originally shaped, the bill would have operated most disastrously on the mining interest. As now amended, its chief effect will be on the value of the precious metals after they reach the market. The alacrity with which the amendment was adopted in the Senate and concurred in by the House, shows a determination on the part of Congress not to allow any portion of the Republic to be oppressed by the operation of a general law.—Bulletin.

THE PIGEON ROOSTS.—Every now and then, in the Western country, some extensive tract of woods is discovered which has been selected by the wild pigeons for a roosting and breeding place. Here they congregate in such vast numbers that, in spite of all the modes invented and practised for their destruction, they increase and multiply. Such a breeding-place is now established for the season at Hudson, Wisconsin, and millions of pigeons are clustered together. Great numbers have been killed and salted for winter use by the people of the neighborhood. No less than eighty seven were killed by one man at one discharge of his double barrelled gun.—Wilkes's Spirit.

The Iron Mountain of Missouri is exactly in the geographical centre of the United States. It is an almost solid mass of specular iron ore, rising from a level plain two hundred and sixty feet. Its base covers five hundred acres. The ore contains sixty seven per cent of iron, and yields one ton of pig for two tons of ore. It costs about fifty cents a ton to quarry, little if any blasting is required, one hundred and ten bushels of charcoal make a ton of iron. It is supposed that the mountain was deposited by chemical action.

A newly married couple at Studley, England, lately decided to have grandmamma's arm chair re stuffed, in her absence, and sent it away for the purpose. The old lady, returning, astonished them by saying that there was £400 among the hair, and for the chair was sent for and he cash secured. Further inquiries realized the fact that an old petticoat which had been consigned to the rag bag contained a number of sovereigns stitched into the waistband.

SOUND OF SUNSET.—On the arrival of an emigrant ship, some years ago, which the war vessel North Carolina had in the Battery, an Irishman, hearing the gun fired at sunset, inquired of one of the sailors what that was. "What's that? Why that's nothing. It's only the contemptuous reply. "Sunset," exclaimed Paddy, with astonishment. "Jesus! Holy Moses! and does the sun go down in this country with such a chap as that?"

A SCENE IN THE LOUISIANA CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION.—The New Orleans Tribune of Sunday says: On the motion being made to admit to the floor the two negroes, Wm. Wells and Robert W. Lynch, well known as such, an ominous silence fell upon the Convention, which was not broken for a few minutes. Then Mr. Wells arose and said: Mr. President, I feel that I am not the person to be first called upon to address this Convention, composed as it is of the representatives of the white race of Louisiana. They are well known as such, and I am not ashamed to say that I am proud of the fact that I belong to the race which has been for centuries trampled upon by the white man. Gentlemen, I am not the first colored man who has been admitted to the floor of a deliberative assembly in this country. Before the war, colored men were frequently admitted to the floor of Congress, and I have myself had the honor of addressing the Legislature of Massachusetts. I am not the first colored man who has been admitted to the floor of this Convention. Yesterday two colored men were admitted to the floor, and I am proud to say that one of them was born in the State of Louisiana, and was never beyond the boundaries of the State. I am with Wells. Comment is unnecessary.

SUGAR AS FOOD.—Bridges Adams, the English physiologist, in a recent paper on the "Use of sugar in assisting assimilation of food," says: "I know by experience the difference in nutritious effect produced by the flesh of tired cattle on a march, and those slain in a condition arising from abundant food and healthy exercise. In a former case any amount might be eaten without the satisfaction of hunger, whilst in the latter a smaller amount removed hunger. But I discovered that certain other food of a different quality, such as grape sugar and fruit, would help the tired meat to assimilate, and thus to remove hunger." Puddings and fruit tarts are not, therefore, simply flatteries of the palate, but digestive agents, provided always they are not themselves made of rebelliously indigestible materials. The reviewer alludes to the goodness of artisans for confectionery, and of patients just discharged from the hospital asking for "sweets" in preference to "good substantial food," as example of a correct instinct. There is no doubt that in children, in whom the requirements of growth call for a rapid and efficient transformation of food into tissue, the demand for sweets is very imperious, and parents should understand that the pound pot will diminish the butcher's bill, and increase the amount of nutrition extracted from beef and mutton.

A London coroner says that during the last 15 years, no less than 40 000 persons, or 8 per day have lost their lives in England by fire.

IRELAND has lost 2,500,000 of its population by emigration within ten years, and the exodus is still going on at the rate of 120,000 a year.

PERUVIAN SYRUP,

Solution of Protoxide of Iron,

Has been found in Extensive Use for the Cure of

DYSPEPSIA,

Also one of the Best Blood Purifiers and Consequently a Sure Remedy for all Diseases of the Blood, Such as Scrofula, Chronic Diarrhœa, Bowel Complaints, Chronic Diarrhœa, Piles, Effects of Excesses in Mercury,

GENERAL DEBILITY,

and all Diseases which requires a

Tonic and Alterative Medicine.

THE PECULIAR EFFICACY with which this Syrup of Protoxide of Iron, or Peruvian Syrup, as it is usually called, restores the blood to a healthy condition, and thereby imparts health and vigor to the whole system, is fully attested by the following certificates, which we select from a large number in our possession. They are from well-known citizens of Boston, and the statements they contain are worthy the attention of the public.

From well-known Citizens of Boston.

The undersigned, having experienced the beneficial effects of Hostetter's Peruvian Syrup, feel it a duty they owe to the afflicted to recommend it to the attention of the public.

Rev. JOHN PIERPONT, THOMAS C. AMORY,
THOMAS A. DEXTER, LITTLETON AUSTIN,
S. H. REYNOLDS, M. D., JAMES C. DUNN,
SAMUEL MAY, Rev. THOS. WHITTEMORE.

Certificate of Dr. Hayes.

It is well known to the medical profession that the Protoxide of Iron is a very useful remedy in many diseases of the blood, but it has been found impossible to administer it in a form in which it would not produce injurious effects upon the teeth, stomach and bowels. In the Peruvian Syrup these objections are entirely obviated, as it contains the Protoxide of Iron in a state of perfect solution, and in a form in which it can be taken with perfect safety and the most beneficial results.

Answer to the State of Maine Inquiries.

16 Pleasant street, Boston, Mass., Dec. 1, 1863.

HOSTETTER, SMITH & DEAN,

Gentlemen—I am in receipt of your favor of the 30th ult., and in answer to your inquiries would say that I have been in the habit of using your Peruvian Syrup in my practice for the last two years, and have found it a most valuable remedy in all cases of debility, and especially in those cases of Dyspepsia where there is a want of tone in the digestive organs. I have also found it a most valuable remedy in cases of Scrofula, and in all cases where it is necessary to purify the blood. I have also found it a most valuable remedy in cases of Piles, and in all cases where it is necessary to purify the blood. I have also found it a most valuable remedy in cases of Piles, and in all cases where it is necessary to purify the blood.

IODINE WATER.

IODINE WATER IS THE MOST IMPORTANT DISCOVERY in therapeutic chemistry, and it is impossible to overrate its value in disease as a direct agent of health. It has proved the most powerful remedy in Medical Science, and many of the most eminent and practical chemists and physicians have investigated its effects upon the human system. It is to act upon the

HEART,

LIVER, KIDNEYS,

DIGESTIVE ORGANS AND GLANDULAR SYSTEM,

and to have great control over

SCROFULOUS AFFECTIONS.

Notwithstanding the zeal and ability which have been devoted to its investigation, it remained almost useless until Dr. Henry Anders, a physician and chemist of New York, after years of patient labor and experiment, discovered a chemical process which enabled him to dissolve without a solvent. This considered impossible by the scientific world is attested by certificates of analysis from Dr. J. R. Chilton of this city and Prof. Booth, U. S. Mint, Philadelphia. The importance of this discovery was so highly appreciated by the faculty that it was published in the Medical Journals, and it is now recommended to practitioners (see "American Medical Monthly," July 6, 1850, page 76).

PURE IODINE IN PURE WATER

This valuable medicine is now available to the public for the cure of Scrofula in all its manifold forms, Consumption, Cancer, Heart, Liver and Kidney Diseases, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Nervous Affections, Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, etc.

AS A TONIC

Its operation is evinced by strengthening the digestive organs and increased nutrition of the body is the result of the employment of Iodine. The patient recovers flesh, strength and color, hitherto pale, relaxed and feeble, he becomes full strong and florid.
